Support the local market gardening sector

Published on 14 March 2024

If summer is the peak production season with significant labor requirements, the lack of personnel is a recurring problem for producers.

More than thirty organic or conventional market gardeners operate in the Le Havre region and contribute to the supply of fresh vegetables to the local population.

Whether for a summer job or for a longer period, come and discover the market gardening professions (sowing, weeding, harvesting, sales preparation, etc.) and come and contribute to the dynamic undertaken in the region to develop production local and quality!
