MJM Graphic Design

MJM Graphic Design, founded in 1979, is a private higher education establishment specializing in the creative professions.

Present in over 13 cities, the school applies a common pedagogical approach to all its campuses.

Its aim is to train professionals capable of meeting market expectations thanks to their technical skills and open-mindedness. The programs offered are designed to prepare students for professional integration by developing their skills and creativity.

The MJM campus in Le Havre

Located in the Docks district, the MJM campus in Le Havre occupies 1,500 m² of space, within a former hangar that has been converted into an artistic training facility. The teaching team, made up of professors and working professionals, is committed to adapting programs to changes in the sector, to help students enter the job market.

A word from the Director

"Welcome to the creative world!"

Our Le Havre campus is part of our commitment to providing students with a setting conducive to artistic development, visual experimentation and professionalization in the design, image and graphic arts professions.

Set in a dynamic environment, between the sea and modern architecture, our campus offers a unique atmosphere that is inspiring, human and forward-looking.

Our mission is clear: to train the creative minds of tomorrow, helping them to develop their talent, know-how and artistic identity. Thanks to a project-based teaching approach, professional lecturers and teaching objectives in tune with today's world, we give our students all the keys they need to successfully enter the creative industries.

In Le Havre, you'll find much more than a school: a passionate community, a place for exchange, innovation and collaboration. Whether you're studying graphic design, fashion design, interior architecture or video/vfx editing, you'll be encouraged to push your boundaries, to explore, to create.

Welcome to the world of MJM.

Welcome to the Le Havre campus."
